1 SECTION 1 ABOUT THE TUC

VALUE EDUCATION VALUE EDUCATORS

The National Education Union (NEU) represents the majority of teachers and education professionals in the UK. The NEU is the largest education union, giving us the strength to achieve change, both in working conditions and in the education system. Our members are at the heart of the union movement, shaping the future of education for the benefit of all.

VALUE EDUCATORS

WELCOME

I'm immensely proud to be the new general secretary of the TUC. And proud of the work unions are doing to tackle the cost-of-living crisis and win a fair deal for working people. There's never been a greater need for strong, effective trade unions backed with stronger collective bargaining rights.

The TUC will be supporting affiliates and their members through the economic emergency – including unions taking industrial action. We'll be pushing back against attacks on our employment and labour rights, including the right to strike. And we'll be putting our trade union agenda of better work, higher wages and decent services at the heart of the political debate, so when the next election comes we fight it on our terrain.

Our ability to win for working people rests on our collective strength. So I'm determined we become more inclusive and representative, reaching out to today's workers in all their diversity. Equality must be hardwired into all our work.

I hope you find this directory a useful guide to the TUC, our member unions, staff and structures and the broader union movement.

Let's win for workers in 2023!

Paul Nowak
General secretary

OUR VISION

The TUC is the voice of Britain at work. We exist to improve working life and promote equality for everyone.

OUR MISSION

The TUC brings together 5.5 million working people who belong to our 48 member unions. We support trade unions to grow and thrive, and we stand up for everyone who works for a living. Every day, we campaign for more and better jobs, and a more equal, more prosperous country.

Who we are

The Trades Union Congress (TUC) exists to make the working world a better place for everyone.

Working people joining together can change things. For more than 150 years, unions have fought for safer workplaces and wages you can build a life on. And today we're needed more than ever to make sure every job is a decent job and everyone at work is treated with respect.

What we do

The TUC's job is to:

- › support trade unions to grow and thrive, helping them represent their members and keep pace with the changing world of work

- › stand up for everyone who works for a living, by publishing research and evidence, and campaigning for changes to the law and in society
- › advocate for collective bargaining, trade unionism and putting working people at the heart of our society, economy and politics
- › help union members get on in life, through running and managing learning and skills programmes.

Our values guide us in all our work. We stand for equality, fairness and justice, and for dignity and respect for all working people. We believe in solidarity: that working people can achieve more acting together than they can do on their own. And we are internationalists, acting with trade unionists around the world to promote working people's interests.

How the TUC works

Every September, the UK's trade unions meet at Congress. Congress is where the movement decides its priorities for the coming year, and what the TUC should do to achieve them. Each union sends representatives and raises issues for discussion and debate.

Between Congresses, the General Council oversees the TUC's work and decides how to respond to events. The General Council is made up of representatives of member unions, plus reserved seats for women, LGBT+ workers, Black and minority ethnic workers and disabled workers.

Each year, the General Council appoints a smaller executive committee from among its own members. This group meets each month to implement policy, manage the TUC's finances and deal with urgent business.

The TUC general secretary leads the TUC's work throughout the year. She is supported by the deputy general secretary and a team of staff working in London, the English regions, Wales, Scotland and Brussels.

The General Council elects the TUC president. Their one-year term in office starts at the close of Congress. The president chairs Congress, the General Council and the Executive Committee meetings, represents the TUC at national and international events and supports and advises the general secretary.

Each year, the TUC also runs conferences for Black, disabled, LGBT+, women and young workers. These conferences and their elected committees guide the General Council and Congress in setting policy on relevant equalities issues.

Wales TUC's conference and the Welsh General Council are responsible for deciding TUC policy on devolved matters and overseeing TUC activity on issues that are the responsibility of the Welsh government.

The TUC's English regions each have their own regional conference, to guide and advise the regional secretary and their team in taking forward the TUC's priorities over the coming year.

Policy staff in Wales and the English regions

The TUC has offices in six English regions and Wales. These are part of the Organisation, Services & Skills department.

Wales TUC develops policy on all devolved matters and others specific to Wales. Its General Council also oversees the implementation of UK-wide or international matters agreed by the TUC's General Council. In Scotland the STUC is a separate organisation, while in Northern Ireland the TUC has links with ICTU.

Unions are also active in communities, and their views are co-ordinated by TUC trades union councils.

3 SECTION 3 TUC SERVICES

Helping unions to grow and thrive

The TUC supports trade unions to grow and thrive, helping them represent their members and keep pace with the changing world of work.

1. Policy, political and government engagement

The TUC briefs member unions on economic, equalities, workplace and social policy, and on trends in the workplace and economy. We engage with the government and political parties as they develop policy, responding to consultations and attending meetings on behalf of the union movement. And we run movement-wide campaigns on key issues that affect all unions.

The TUC co-ordinates union representation on public bodies and supports ongoing formal discussions with government, such as the joint forum for government and unions with members working in the public sector. We co-ordinate the UK trade union delegation to the ILO, a body of the UN, and to international and European trade union bodies. We also speak on behalf of the union movement in the media.

2. Training union reps

Every year, the TUC trains thousands of union reps, enabling them to develop the skills, knowledge and confidence to represent their members at work. Our training offer can range from negotiating skills to tackling racism. We offer training in partnership with trade union education centres in colleges and much of the training is also available online via tuceducation.org.uk

3. Supporting unions to organise and grow

We help unions to grow, running organising training and working alongside unions to develop their recruitment and organising strategies.

In 2023, the TUC Organising Academy will offer a range of programmes designed to help unions increase membership, participation and effectiveness, in partnership with The Manchester College. Courses include:

- › the diploma in organising
- › the advanced certificate in organising
- › our supporting organising course, which is specifically for union staff in support roles to understand organising
- › communication and campaigns, which helps union staff understand how to frame campaigns for maximum impact.

We also provide bespoke courses for member unions, and we offer consultancy services to assist unions to develop and review their organising strategies, practice and campaigns.

4. TUC Digital Lab

We support our member unions in the urgent task of modernising to meet the challenges of the digital age.

The TUC Digital Lab works in partnership with affiliates to research and share best practice in digital transformation, digital communications and digital organising for unions.

The Digital Lab offers events, pilot projects, resources and hands-on experiences for unions that want to take their next steps together on the digital journey.

Visit digital.tuc.org.uk to find out more.

5. Megaphone UK

Megaphone is the TUC's online campaigning platform. We work with unions to run digital campaigns that help increase their campaigning impact and organising capacity.

Megaphone is free for affiliate unions to use at any level, national or local, and offers a digital toolkit including petitions, email actions, distributed events and strike fund crowdfunding.

Visit megaphone.org.uk to support union campaigns online, or start your own.

6. Developing trade union staff

We support the professional development of staff who work for unions, through formal training and through best practice events. We run a number of informal networks for trade union staff in similar jobs: for example, legal officers, data protection officers, political staff and communicators. We also run the annual trade union communications awards.

We also run Leading Change, which is a strategic training and development programme for union leaders and senior officers.

TUC Information Service

The Information Service provides research services for TUC staff as well as assistance with enquiries from the public. It also provides guidance on managing the TUC's records as well as looking after more recent materials until they are transferred to the Modern Records Centre or TUC Library. The service also advises the organisation on data protection.

TUC publications

The TUC publishes policy briefings and reports on its website.

Campaign materials and guides for reps are also available from our online shop tuc.org.uk/publications, together with priced titles such as Hazards at Work and Your Rights at Work, which can also be ordered in print and in bulk.

In 1934, to commemorate the centenary of the transportation of six agricultural workers transported to Australia in 1834 for forming a trade union, the TUC built six cottages with a central meeting room for retired agricultural labourers. The meeting room was then converted into a museum, which today holds a colourful display of illustrative banners, information stands and interactive displays telling one of the most celebrated stories of human rights. Publications, CDs and souvenirs are on sale from either the museum shop or website.

TUC MEMBER UNIONS

Member unions on the following pages are listed alphabetically by initials.

All contact details were given to the TUC in late autumn 2022, except for the membership figures, which were given to the TUC in July.

Some unions also represent associate or other members. These will be included in numbers they record with the government's Certification Officer.

TUC total membership now stands at 48 affiliated unions representing just under 5.2 million people:

Male	2,359,942
Female	2,780,011
Other*	58,165
Total	5,198,118

TUC Reports of Congress contain membership figures for past years and are available online and from TUC Publications on 020 7467 1294.

5 SECTION 5 SKILLS, EDUCATION AND TRAINING

TUC EDUCATION – TRAINING UNION REPS AND OFFICERS

TUC Education exists for one purpose, to provide unions and their workplace reps and union officers with high quality training that enables them to organise, campaign and represent members collectively and individually. The TUC Education programme includes training for reps and officers via the TUC Leading Change and Union Professionals programmes.

Our training for union reps is delivered in classrooms via our partnerships with FE colleges in England and Scotland and also online. We aim to deliver our training to reps in whatever way they find most accessible and useful, whether that is in a classroom, online or a combination of both.

Our online offer is now well established, and reps can now complete online versions of the three core courses, access eNotes, short micro learnings, and webinars. Last year, over 17,000 reps attended a TUC webinar and over 18,000 undertook one of our online learning packages.

These courses compliment the training at our network of TUC education centres in England, Scotland and Wales.

Details of the entire TUC Education offer can be found at tuc.org.uk/training

Union Professionals development programme

The Union Professionals development programme continues to evolve to meet the needs of union officers and staff in the fast-moving world of work. The programme has recently been reviewed and an updated programme will be rolled out during 2023. For details of the programme contact Marie Hughes at mhughes@tuc.org.uk

TUC Leading Change programme

The TUC launched Leading Change, a training and development programme for senior trade union officers in leadership positions in 2004. Since its launch, almost 250 senior union officers have completed the programme.

In consultation with affiliates and academic partners, the TUC reviewed the content of the programme to make sure that it continued to be relevant to affiliates and senior officers in terms of the challenge's unions face now and in the future.

The TUC is confident that leading change remains the most comprehensive package of training, discussion and support for officers

NASUWT
The Teachers' Union

Unsustainable rises in working hours, pay freezes and inadequate pay offers, together with the massive adverse impact on teachers' mental health, are creating anger in the profession.

Yet teachers' pay has gone down by at least 20% in real terms since 2010.

This exodus of teachers from the profession is blighting effort to secure the education recovery that children and young people deserve.

The NASUWT is clear that action is needed from governments and employers to secure a better deal for teachers, including reinstating fair pay, a reasonable workload and peace of mind.

The ILO is the specialised agency of the United Nations responsible for the world of work. It was established in 1919 as part of the League of Nations. Its mandate is to promote social justice through the attainment of Decent Work globally. Alone among the UN agencies the ILO is a tripartite organisation with representatives of working people and employers having an equal voice with governments.

The International Labour Conference meets every June to supervise the application of international labour standards (ILO Conventions and Recommendations) and where needed agree new standards. In addition to organising the UK's worker delegation to the conference the TUC is represented on the ILO's governing body which meets three times a year.

The ILO is also a major source of research on the world of work, provides technical assistance at a national level to support decent work programmes and organises sectoral meetings attended by trade union, employer and government representatives to discuss key issues in specific industries and sectors.

The ITUC is the world trade union body to which the TUC is affiliated. It was founded in 2006 and has 331 national affiliates in 163 countries and territories, with 207 million members.

The ITUC works to promote the interests of working people, and to reduce the gap between rich and poor by helping working people to organise and to fight oppression everywhere. It defends human and trade union rights and works for international understanding and peace. It opposes discrimination, child and forced labour and supports freedom of association and free collective bargaining.

TUC Aid

TUC Aid is the charitable arm of the British trade union movement and provides financial support and solidarity for working people around the world.

TUC Aid's priorities are:

- › enabling workers to build democratic and accountable unions, states and institutions
- › securing equality and social justice through the trade union movement
- › supporting vulnerable workers in improving their working lives

- › ensuring international trade and investment drive decent work.

The trustees are Michelle Codrington-Rogers (chair), Sue Ferns, Jo Grady, Mariela Kohon, Gloria Mills and David Sachon.

Changing the world
of work for good

Protecting trade union members with free legal support

We work with trade unions to ensure members, and their families, have access to a first-class legal package.

Members using our services:

- Keep 100% of their compensation
- Don't pay any legal fees
- Have access to experienced lawyers
- Get a legal team that works with their union to increase the chances of their claim succeeding.

We're the UK's largest trade union law firm and we only ever act for the injured or mistreated, never for insurers or employers.
